

Happy Holidays!

News and Notes from Miss Hawes' Classroom

For the week of: Dec 16-20

Our Week

Our last week before winter break went very well. Students worked on CVC chopping and blending, and also learned more about different holidays, as well as how Christmas is celebrated around the world. Santa came to visit our classroom on Wednesday, and the students wrote a letter to him that will go into their scrapbooks.

During writer's workshop, students learned about showing emotion in their words and pictures. We added how we felt to pages of books that they had already started. We also read a Mo Willems book that showed them how an illustrator uses lines in their drawings to show movement. The students did a great job recognizing this, and attempting to add lines into their own writing.

During math we focused on the number 4. Students worked more with 3D shape recognition. We did not get to start comparing numbers, so this is something we will begin doing after break. Please remember to read book baggie books and practice sight words over break!

Our party was very fun! The students played games and made ornaments- thank you SO MUCH to our volunteers!

I hope you have a wonderful break and holiday spent with family and friends! Your children are so excited to give you the gifts they made for you, and I hope you enjoy them for years to come.

December Math Journals came home yesterday. If your child would like to work on this over break and complete it, they can bring it back anytime in January to earn a special pencil and a Frozen sticker.

There will be no homework over break ☺
